He compares life to a tree that grows and expands until it reaches the unfathomable heights of the sky. Existence continues beyond our dreams and understandings, and love serves as a foundation in a person¢ÄÄÄs life. In a nutshell, the speaker believes that life is impossible without feelings of love. The speaker views love to be a marvel of the cosmos is analogous to the astronomical laws that keep the stars apart. The speaker concludes the poem with the same line: ¢ÃÂÂI carry the heart of my beloved with me, and I hold it within my own heart.¢Ã The speaker discusses the entire cosmos, using nature as examples, such as roots, blossoms, the sky, and stars, before returning to the same spot. It demonstrates that his existence and world revolve around his beloved¢ÃÂAs affection. Themes in the PoemLoveThis is a love poem, and the speaker does not discuss anything other than love throughout the poem. He values his beloved¢ÂÂÂs love more than anything else in the world. Furthermore, he views love to be the cornerstone of life and claims that life is impossible without sentiments of love. He conveys his actual feelings for his beloved by addressing her as my dear, my darling, and gorgeous. He claims to have her heart within his own and that he never stops thinking about her no matter where he goes or what he does. The speaker proclaims his love for his beloved and claims that it is infinite, claiming that even if he dies, his love would go on in this world. The speaker and his beloved $\tilde{A}\tilde{A}$ spiritual link and perfect unity are inspirational. He praises her, adding that even if they die, the sun will continue to sing her songs in his songs. This love is also a source of eternal calm for speaking, and compare his beloved in the sun and the moon to express like her and her love provide him power, warmth, brightness and satisfaction. In addition, she uses the term always to emphasize that the love of two people. Her speaker honestly loves her loved one, and their love joined them, as she says she is with him wherever she goes and has a hand in everything that she does. He also claims to bring his heart into his own, which he adds to their whole. They are connected, and the speaker cannot bear the thought of her existence without her. Destiny and the world spectator discusses destiny. He says he is not afraid of fate. There are many obstacles in the way of love, and lovers meet many tests, but the speaker says that she does not fear destiny or adverse until he loved him is with him. The speaker claims that he does not want the world or his pleasures. He is only worried about him loved him, to whom he refers to him as the true love of him. He only worries about the world represented by him loved by him in front of him. Natural most of the Poems of Cummings deal with the themes of love and nature. This poem is no exception, as it contains a theme of nature. In the poem, sky, tree, sun and moon. He compares life to a tree that extends to infinity and uses nature to demonstrate the purity of his love of him. According to him, love is the basis of life, as well as the roots and gems are the foundations of a tree. I ... bring your heart with me Analysislines 1-4Tore mentions him loved by him in the first lines of the poem. He addresses her and adds that she always takes the heart of her loved with her with him. He says he brings her heart within her. These sentences imply that the speaker does not carry her heart with him, but he is in fact speaking about her love. The speaker wants to express that he carries his beloved $\tilde{A}\tilde{A}\tilde{A}\tilde{S}\ti that no matter what he does, he is not alone and that his beloved is always there in his acts. The speaker attempts to express his affection for his beloved is always present wherever he goes, and she has a strong influence on the speaker $\hat{A}\hat{A}$ sentiments and behaviour. It also suggests that wherever he goes, her love accompanies him and that wherever he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him and that where he goes had a companies him a companies had a companies had a companies him a companies had a companies had a comp ¢Ã demonstrating his deep affection for her.READ ALSO:à Hunger by Jayanta Mahapatra - Summaries and Questions AnswersLines 5-7In these lines, the speaker professes his great affection for his beloved is his destiny. Here, he connects his fate to that of his beloved. It conveys the impression that the two lovers are reunited once more. The poet experiments with language in these lines. When he says ¢ÃÂÂI fear, ¢Ã the readers expect him to inform them about the things he fears in his life, but in the following line, he surprisingly declares ¢ÃÂÂI fear, ¢Ã implying that he has no anxieties in his life. The speaker then expresses his dissatisfaction with the world, and he refers to her as his actual universe.
